

It is imperative that the FCC maintain full regulatory authority of broadband service, specifically, control of pricing and service level agreements between ILECs and resellers of DSL and overlay facilities operators. Otherwise, the ILECs will be in a position to operate and price services at pure monopoly level, thereby slowing the growth of highspeed internet access to the general population.

Thank you, Richard Murphy